FROM THE MAYOR OF WALKERVILLE

It has been a vibrant first half of the year here in Walkerville and I am proud to share some exciting highlights with you.

A key focus is road safety. You may have received a letter about the rollout of 40km/h speed zones across residential areas of Medindie, Walkerville, Gilberton and part of Vale Park. This change, coming into effect this month, is about making our streets safer - especially for pedestrians and cyclists. For updates, please scan the QR code inside or visit our website.

One of the greatest honours I have as Mayor is conferring citizenship. In March, I had the privilege of welcoming 14 new Australians from Hong Kong, India, Iran, Malaysia, Sri Lanka and the United Kingdom. One resident shared a deeply personal and moving story during the ceremony - you can read her journey inside this newsletter.

In May, our community came together to celebrate the incredible local volunteers at the annual Volunteer Peace Pole Maker, Heidi Unferdorben; Mayor Melissa Jones; Rotary Club of Walkerville President, Barry Blakebrough; and Rotary Club of Walkerville members, Tanu Pareek, Richard Bentley and Liz Horrocks. Read the full article on the next page.

Awards. While I was unable to attend this year, Deputy Mayor Jay Allanson proudly hosted the event on my behalf. We are so fortunate to live in a community filled with passionate, hardworking people who give their time to make Walkerville an even better place to call home - read more inside.

We were also proud to support the Walkerville RSL in delivering such a meaningful and well-attended ANZAC Day Dawn Service. On the day, we paused to remember the courage, sacrifice and service of all who have served - including local heroes like Lieutenant Reg Evans DSC, a Medindie resident whose quiet bravery during WWII helped save the life of a young John F. Kennedy. He was later honoured with the United Kingdom's Distinguished Service Cross for bravery and enterprise in reconnaissance operations, as well as being invited to the White House by President Kennedy. Thank you to everyone who came along to pay their respects and honour those who have served. A special thank you to the Rotary Club of Walkerville for providing the traditional gunfire breakfast following the service.

We are now consulting on our 2025/26 budget and I encourage you to share your thoughts. I am particularly excited about masterplanning for the Walkerville Sports Club, Levi Oval and Walkerville Terrace, which will build on the momentum of our current major projects. This year, we will also see the completion of our three biggest initiatives: the Walkerville Bowling & Community Club, the 39 Smith Street recreation centre and the Walkerville Oval open space upgrade.

Recently, I had the honour of speaking at 'Hope 25', hosted by St Andrew's Church. I spoke about how hope is not just a feeling, but an action. Whether it's our Harmony Day citizenship ceremonies, the new Social Prescribing Project connecting residents with wellbeing services, or our goal to become a "Blue Zone" that supports longevity and healthy lifestyles - Council is taking real steps to bring hope to life in our Town.

Another exciting initiative is the upcoming launch of a Chatty Café series, thanks to our Walkerville Community Committee. This program creates spaces where residents can meet for conversation and connection - helping reduce social isolation and foster mental wellbeing.

These are just a few examples of how we are working to build a more compassionate, connected and hopeful Walkerville.

Whether you supported a neighbour or shared feedback through consultation - thank you. Together, we are shaping a community that is not only beautiful, safe and historic, but full of community spirit.

Works about Town

Town of Walkerville is becoming a 40km/h zone!

Council will be implementing 40km/h speed zone changes in eligible precincts across the Township in June 2025.

The new 40km/h speed zones will be implemented in three different precincts within the Township:

- Medindie – bounded by Main North Road, Nottage Terrace, Northcote Terrace and Robe Terrace;
- Gilberton – bounded by Park Road, Northcote Terrace, Stephen Terrace and the River Torrens; and
- Walkerville and part of Vale Park – bounded by Stephen Terrace, North East Road, Ascot Avenue and the River Torrens.

The speed changes will not be implemented on the north part of Vale Park (above Ascot Avenue), and will not impact Department for Infrastructure and Transport (DIT roads).

Areas that will not become 40km/h include part of Walkerville Terrace remaining 50km/h from Robe Terrace to Stephen Terrace, and other DIT roads remaining at 60km/h, such as Stephen Terrace, Nottage Terrace, Main North Road, Northcote Terrace, Park Road, North East Road and Ascot Avenue.

Residents can expect the installation of new traffic signs to indicate the 40km/h speed zone change in the area, and the implementation and enforcement of 40km/h speed zone on eligible local precincts throughout Town of Walkerville from June 2025.

The reduced speed limits will help improve safety outcomes for road users, including pedestrians and cyclists, and result in calmer traffic within local streets.

During the Transport Strategy consultation in 2023, Council found that the majority of the community was supportive of 40km/h speed zones.

For more information about the 40km/h speed zone changes, head to the Council website or scan the QR code.

Peace Pole in Walkerville

A Peace Pole has been installed at Mary P Harris Reserve as part of a global initiative promoting unity across cultures, beliefs and backgrounds.

The project, led locally by the Rotary Club of Walkerville and supported by Council, features the message “May peace prevail on Earth” in English, Kurna, Mandarin and Greek - reflecting our community's cultural diversity.

Created by Heidi Unferdorben, one of just seven authorised Peace Pole Makers worldwide, the monument is part of Rotary's mission to donate 100 poles to schools and community spaces in honour of 100 years of Rotary in South Australia.

Community feedback was positive, describing the pole as a meaningful reminder of peace and a tribute to those who gave their lives so Australians could live freely.

A special ceremony is expected to be held in August to mark 80 years since the Hiroshima bombing, reinforcing the pole's message of global peace.

Major projects update

Walkerville Bowling & Community Club

Significant progress continues on the Walkerville Bowling & Community Club development. Recent milestones include the completion of roofing and brickwork, with internal construction works scheduled to commence in the coming weeks. The project remains on track for completion in October 2025.

39 Smith Street recreational centre

The concrete foundation has recently been completed at 39 Smith Street, and work has now commenced on the assembly of the structural framing. The project remains on schedule, with completion anticipated by the end of 2025.

Walkerville Sports Club

With Walkerville's other major projects due to be completed by the end of 2025, Council will soon be turning its attention back to the Walkerville Sports Club.

The Walkerville Sports Club Design Committee was appointed in early 2024 and will soon reconvene to discuss Council's options for a redevelopment of the facility. More information will be provided regarding the future of the Sports Club in the coming months.

Walkerville Oval open space

The first stage of the Walkerville Oval open space works, consisting of the new oval lighting and electronic scoreboard, is expected to have been completed by the time of issue. A twin 'Exeloo', consisting of two self-cleaning public toilets, has also been installed within the Walkerville Oval car park and is now operational. As a result of these new toilets, Council has made the decision to close the existing public toilet within the Walkerville Sports Club.

The second stage of the Walkerville Oval open space works, consisting of the multi-use courts with lighting, synthetic cricket pitches and new picnic facilities, will commence shortly, with completion expected in October 2025 in time for the 2025/26 cricket season.

Persecution to possibility: a citizen's journey to the stars

When Sepideh Behameen boarded the plane from Turkey to Australia, fleeing religious persecution in Iran, she felt like she was literally flying. As the aircraft took off, it wasn't just wheels leaving the ground – it was the weight of years of oppression lifting from her shoulders and fading into the distance. "Australia became my launchpad," she said.

Gilberton resident, Sepideh Behameen, received her citizenship in March this year.

The relief and calm that overcame Sepideh when she realised she was moving to a country of freedom was an experience like no other.

From the day she stepped on Australian soil, she has always felt she was meant to be in this country.

"I always felt that I belonged here and always felt respected," she explained.

In Iran, due to her religious faith, she was unable to attend university. A common experience among other followers of Baha'i faith.

In a bid to ensure she could follow her dreams, she left for Turkey under a refugee status, before becoming eligible for a humanitarian visa in Australia.

Sepideh arrived in Perth in 2019 with her mother and was able to settle into Australia. Eventually, she moved to Adelaide to reach for the stars (quite literally) as she followed her passion for cosmology. She is studying a Bachelor of Science (Space Science and Astrophysics) and is in her final year.

Mayor Melissa Jones conferred citizenship on Sepideh at a March ceremony during Harmony Week. Sepideh gave a moving speech at the ceremony, detailing how Australia had given her back her dreams:

"Through the gift of a humanitarian visa, I found the freedom to grow... Where one government tried to collapse my potential into nothingness, Australia gave me the space to expand, to shine and to contribute."

"Citizenship is more than a privilege—it is a responsibility. No matter how small my actions may seem in the vast universe, I feel the duty to give back, to serve and to contribute in whatever way I can. Even the faintest star can play its part in brightening the night and adding a little sparkle."

The overarching message Sepideh spoke of was hope, especially during the current global uncertainty.

However, Sepideh believes hope isn't just about wishful thinking, "It's an active process that makes you become an active agent to work toward a change that you feel is needed. And for me, hope comes from serving others and striving for justice, unity and progress".

Sepideh couldn't be more grateful and proud to be an Australian citizen in a country that showed her such kindness.

"I always had the sense of commitment that this country accepted me with open arms and I need to give back to our country!" she said.

Prescriptions for Connection

A ground-breaking new initiative, Prescriptions for Connection, is now being piloted and rolled out across Walkerville, aiming to tackle loneliness and social isolation among older residents. Co-designed with input from GPs, health professionals, northern councils and community members, this social prescribing project is the first in Australia to utilise trained volunteers - rather than paid link workers - to help participants connect with local activities that support their health and wellbeing.

Currently being trialled from March to September 2025, the program has already recruited 23 volunteers to serve as Community Connectors. These volunteers support participants by exploring their interests and linking them with local programs and services.

Dying to know about palliative care

“Doctor, can I drink wine with my medication?” is a common question that Professor Greg Crawford AM receives from his patients to whom he is providing palliative care services.

And his response is usually a variation of, “As long as it doesn’t make you comatose and as long as you’re not endangering anybody else by driving your car, then I think you should drink the highest quality wine that you could possibly afford!”

Prof Crawford is an expert in the palliative care field and is also the 2025 Citizen of the Year Award winner for Town of Walkerville.

At 5.30pm, on Thursday, 7 August 2025, Prof Crawford will be presenting a special information session on palliative care at this year’s Dying To Know event at the Walkerville Town Hall.

He has found over his career that people are often frightened about talking about the possibility of end of life, let alone facing the actual reality of it, however, he always finds that people end up wishing they had accessed the offered services sooner.

He hopes to provide further clarity on the importance of palliative care and how it can improve people’s lives when they need it most.

Prof Crawford was always drawn to supporting vulnerable people, so he naturally became a leading physician in palliative care in Australia – including across a number of leadership roles for palliative care related services.

He said his role as a palliative care physician has provided him with an interesting lens on death and dying, but has also been a great privilege during his 28-year career.

“Patients never cease to amaze me with the different ways in which they face whatever adversity is happening to them,” explains Prof Crawford.

“There are some people who have said to me that - while I’ve watched their body fade away - this has been the best year of their lives.”

At the Dying To Know event, Prof Crawford will be discussing:

- how you may benefit from palliative care;
- barriers people may face accessing palliative care;
- services and supports that are available;
- what does palliative care look like;
- legislation around palliative care;
- and so much more.

There will also be a question time for people to ask any queries they may have about palliative care. Prof Crawford has certainly heard them all and he never shies away from an awkward conversation.

“People are still frightened [of palliative care], even clinicians and some doctors are a bit also, you know, ‘they’re not ready for you yet’, where in fact, they should be meeting us early and then we can help them set the direction for answering some of those questions that patients have that they don’t know how to answer,” explains Prof Crawford.

He also hopes to dispel myths that commonly appear around death and dying, including morphine ending your life quicker - actually, good pain relief helps people live longer - or palliative care is only for your dying days - it definitely isn’t.

Prof Crawford says palliative care is such a crucial service, and it’s important that people with chronic illness or terminal illness prepare for and understand how this service will benefit and impact their lives.

“I think part of palliative care is helping people to take control of what feels like an uncontrollable situation and to achieve what is considered important for them,” said Prof Crawford.

Remembering our ANZACs

On 25 April 2025, the Walkerville RSL held a moving ANZAC Day Dawn Service, with Mayor Melissa Jones recounting the remarkable story of Medindie local, Lieutenant Arthur Reginald Evans DSC, who was involved in a critical role of saving an American patrol torpedo boat, captained by none other than John F. Kennedy.

His actions, though hidden from public recognition for many years, were instrumental in saving the life of the man who would later become the President of the United States of America.

The event was attended by Walkerville RSL members, Town of Walkerville Councillors and the local community.

Meet Your Walkerville Community Committee

The Walkerville Community Committee (WCC) is your local group of passionate community members and Council representatives working together to support wellbeing, connection and inclusivity across our Town.

Made up of the Mayor, three Council Members and four residents, the WCC meets regularly to brainstorm ideas, fundraise and rollout small but meaningful initiatives that bring people together.

Recently, the group reflected on how they could foster even stronger connections – both within the community and amongst themselves – and came up with a simple but powerful idea: the Chatty Café series. Launching soon in Walkerville, this initiative will create welcoming spaces where locals can sit down for a cuppa and a conversation – helping reduce social isolation and spark friendships.

Walkerville Community Committee members: Rupa Jandu, Mayor Melissa Jones, Suzi Magliaro, Councillor Liz Trotter, Councillor John Zeppel and Councillor Aman Kaur.

More about the Chatty Cafés will be released soon, but in the meantime, keep an eye out for the WCC at events and in your local newsletter – and don’t be shy to say hello. They are here for you and always happy to chat about ways to give back.
